

Local Government Practicum

WHERE YOUR CITY BECOMES THE CLASSROOM

What is the Practicum?

The Local Government Practicum, often referred to as “LGP”, establishes collaborative partnerships between cities and graduate students from universities throughout Georgia studying public administration or a related field. These students engage in immersive research projects spanning one academic semester. This partnership allows students to gain invaluable real-world experience while simultaneously giving cities additional resources or capacity to move a project forward.

The Practicum has been around since 2007 with 100+ projects completed over the years. Flip this page to see a selection of past Practicum projects.

Why should your city get involved?

-  Receive high quality, well-researched and objective recommendations to inform local decision-making – at little to no cost.
-  Help shape the next generation of local government professionals!

For more information,
scan the QR code:

What Practicum projects have Georgia cities hosted in the past?

This is a sampling from the 100+ projects completed to date. A city of any size or location can host a Practicum project on virtually any topic.

Ready to participate or have questions?

Contact Claire Chan at cchan@gacities.com or 470-484-6705